

Specialization: Economics, bachelor's degree, full-time study

B1.B4 History of Armenia annotation

2 ECTS, 72 academic hours.

Control form: pass/fail.

Summary. The history course of Armenia is intended for first-time students courses of non-historical faculties. The course traces the socio-political, state-legal, spiritual-mental, cultural development of the Armenian people, creating national and historical specifics. The course is a synthesis of stories political, economic, cultural. These directions are in a straight and close relationship.

The course is aimed at the formation of students' knowledge that contributes not only to understanding the centuries-old history of the Armenian people, but also the tasks facing modern Armenian society in the era of globalization, the development of a sensitive the humanism of the worldview, their awareness of the modern goals of social life. It is imperative that students realize that the achievement of these values is possible only thanks to the constant struggle to solve the main economic, social and political issues.

In the economic sphere - for economic efficiency, in the social sphere – achievement social justice, in political - the development of democracy, its institutions, guarantees human rights and freedoms. This is a special process in Armenia. Being at the crossroads trade roads, the junction of cultures and civilizations, being the arena of numerous wars Armenia has historical features. The course is designed for 54 hours of streaming lectures and 36 hours seminars, and also involves the independent work of students.